

I value having internet service from an independent ISP. Independent ISP's are able to provide better support and respond to customers needs, which gives an overall better service. I know this through experience. I have had to deal with poor service through large phone companies who seem to care less about the customer. This is why I pay for an independent ISP, which I am extremely happy with.

Do not stop regulating broadband services. We do not need any more monopolies in this country. I hope that this letter has some impact in the FCC. Though I know it will be hard to compete with the lobbying money from large phone companies like BellSouth. The role of government and the FCC is to protect and serve its people. It does not exist to protect and serve the large phone companies. Do not stop regulating broadband services.

Thank you
